We have several methods of protection that prevent or dramatically limit the impact of your lost or stolen USB thumb drive, giving you peace of mind. Put a Hardware Secured USB Flash Drive in your package and guarantee the safety of a gift they'll use every day. Protect your data. Protect your bootloader. Protect your computer. We've already shown you ways to prevent your USB drive from being used outside of your computer. But it's just not enough to stop a determined thief. If a thumb drive's bootloader is lost or stolen, your data can be permanently deleted from the drive and any data backups held on it. Losing even a single piece of data from a thumb drive will give data thieves a window of opportunity to pry, poke and probe an USB drive's bootloader and delete your data. We're going to look at a few different ways to protect your bootloader with a Hardware Secured USB Flash Drive and for those of you using a software program to protect your bootloader I'm afraid you're out of luck. Hardware Secured USB Flash Drive – The Untethered Theft Proof USB Flash Drive (TP-UFSD) A Hardware Secured USB Flash Drive won't be used by the thief. It won't expose your bootloader. It won't allow your data to be erased, and it will prevent your USB thumb drive from working with any other computer. Securing your bootloader is a step in the right direction. While it's the best way to protect yourself from data loss, it won't protect your data from a thief who steals your USB thumb drive. How To Protect Your Bootloader From A Lost/Stolen USB Drive Now that we have your bootloader locked, it should be in place for a period of time that your USB thumb drive will remain in use. Unfortunately the only way to tell how long that is is to test the drive in another computer to make sure it isn't being used elsewhere. We'll have to be content with assumptions here because we can't really prove
